The Environment Agency has completed a preliminary consultation on the principles of compliance monitoring under discharge consents issued under the Water Resources Act 1991 (WRA'91) It is now considering the way forward. This Workshop will provide a timely update on a development that could open the way for the greater use of sensors. No firm decisions have been made yet so this Workshop provides an opportunity to have your say. Consequently, this will be a highly relevant Workshop of great interest to consent holders, regulators, sensor manufacturers and consultants.

Chair: Stuart Newstead, SWIG & Newstead Consulting Ltd.
